RADLEY REX™
EXPLORES THE WASHINGTON PAVILION

Coloring Book
EXPLORE. LEARN. CREATE.
Grab your crayons, and join Radley Rex for a fun-filled day at the Washington Pavilion! Follow Radley Rex’s clues and experience exciting exhibits, attractions, and learning areas as we go along. Learn about astronauts in outer space. Pretend to conduct an orchestra. Use your imagination to create a masterpiece. Anything is possible.

What are you waiting for? An epic adventure awaits at the Washington Pavilion!

Learn more at www.WashingtonPavilion.org

SPECIAL THANK YOU
This book was made possible, in part, by a generous gift from the David B. Jones Foundation. Their support of paleontology education inspires the next generation of fossil hunters and paleontologists.

Radley Rex™ is a Registered Trademark of the Washington Pavilion. No part of this book may be reproduced without official permission. © 2018 Washington Pavilion - All Rights Reserved.

Written by Kyle Wigg
Illustrated by Adam Prunty | Giant Leap Design
Radley Rex was at his favorite place, the Washington Pavilion.
“I love it here! But, I don’t know where to begin!”
“Hi, Radley!” said a lady from the Box Office.
“My name is Anna. Maybe I can help!”
"Will you show me around?" Radley Rex asked.
"I'll do better than that! I have clues to all the different places in the Pavilion. Read the first clue, and figure out where to go. I'll be there waiting for you!"
Radley Rex felt like a detective as he read the first clue.

Experiments, magnets, tornadoes, and space. There is even a "Fit Zone" in this place.

Radley Rex thought and thought.
"Experiments? Scientists do experiments. I know!"
He ran up the steps and walked into...
The Science Center!
Anna was waiting there. She was even dressed up like a scientist!
“Wow! I wish I could be a scientist, too!” Radley Rex said.
“I thought you might. Here, wear these!” Anna said.
She handed him his own safety goggles.
“This is awesome!” Radley Rex exclaimed. He walked with Anna all around. There were three whole floors filled with lots of different things to do. “Okay, Radley. Time for your next clue,” Anna said, and off she ran.

“Music and dancing, stage lights and clapping, Each event here will get your toes tapping.”

Radley Rex thought, “Stage lights? This must be a big room. I know! It’s...
“The Theatre, the biggest room in the whole Pavilion!”
Anna was there holding a violin. She handed Radley Rex a thin, wooden stick.
“This is a baton. It’s what conductors use to direct the musicians that perform here!” Radley Rex pretended to direct the orchestra.
Then Anna said, “We have entertainers from all over the world who visit the Pavilion. We have dancing troupes, famous musicians, plays, and musicals!”
“Wow!” Radley Rex said. “Look at all the chairs! And, look at the ceiling! This place is HUGE!”
“Radley, are you ready for your next clue?” Anna asked.
She handed Radley Rex his next clue, and off she went.

“Your eyes will be happy, your brain will be busy, You’ll feel so creative, you just might get dizzy!”

Radley Rex thought, “My eyes will be happy? Oh boy, I know! I need to go to…”
...“The Visual Arts Center!” Anna had a special hat, and she was painting a picture. “Radley! You found it!” she said. Anna gave him a paintbrush, too.

“This place has so much to see! Paintings, sculptures, pottery, and cool photos,” Radley Rex said.

“That’s right. And, it changes all the time. All kinds of artists display their creations here.
Anna walked Radley Rex to another room in the Visual Arts Center. It was full of crayons, markers, paints and paper. It even had a small stage and costumes to play pretend.

“I could stay here all day!” Radley Rex exclaimed. Anna laughed, “Come on! We have more exploring to do.” She handed him a clue, and off she went.

“Fountain and flowers, objects and creatures, This outdoor space has great features.”

“A fountain and flowers? Outdoors? Oh, I know! It’s...”
...“The Sculpture Garden!” Anna was sitting at a table, writing in a notebook. “Hi, Anna! I found you!” Radley Rex said.
“I love the Sculpture Garden,” Anna said. “Sometimes, I look at all the sculptures. Other times, I relax and write in my journal, or read.”
"It’s so pretty with all of the flowers, green grass, and sculptures," Radley said. Anna gave him a camera. "Take some pictures before I give you the next clue." Radley Rex took pictures of the fountain, the flowers, and the sculptures. Anna handed him the next clue, and off she ran.

“Create a plate, a cup, or vase. You can do that in this place.”

Radley Rex thought, "I know where you can make those things! It’s the…"
...“Clay Studio! The room with the big oven!”
Anna was there. She handed him a special apron, so he wouldn’t get too messy.
“This is the Clay Studio, Radley,” Anna said. “We have pottery classes to learn how to make special clay art to take home.”
“Like a flower vase?” asked Radley Rex. “Yes, that’s a good example. We put our clay creations into that big oven, called a kiln to make it really hard.”
“Then we can take our clay art home, Anna?” asked Radley Rex.
Anna smiled and nodded.
Actually, we have many classrooms,” Anna explained. “All year long, kids and grown-ups learn about science, math, music and art at the Pavilion.” Wow! I’d love to do that this summer!” Radley Rex said. Anna handed Radley Rex his last clue.

You’ve solved the clues, and I have a hunch, You might be hungry. Let’s eat some lunch!

“I am hungry! But, I didn’t bring a lunch,” Radley Rex said. “Come with me, Radley! I have one more surprise for you!”
They walked together to Leonardo’s Cafe. But, the lights were off. “I didn’t know the Pavilion had a place to eat right inside! But, it looks like it’s closed,” Radley Rex said. Suddenly, the lights turned on. Radley could see all his friends there. “Surprise!” they said. “Oh wow! My friends are all here!” “That’s right, Radley,” said Anna. “They visit the Pavilion just like you do. We all wanted to surprise you with a party after the scavenger hunt!”
“I’ve learned so much today,” Radley Rex said. “I can’t wait to come back!”
“Come sit down, Radley,” a friend said. “We ordered a pizza for you!”
“Maybe when we’re done eating, we can watch a movie in the Cinedome!”
another friend said. Radley Rex ate lunch with his friends.
It had been a very fun day at the Washington Pavilion.
NOW PLAYING

T. REX FACTS

Tyrant Lizard King
T. rex were not as mean as they seem in the movies. Like many dinosaurs, they ate other animals in order to survive. Some scientists think they were good parents, too!

Colorful Characters
Do you think T. rex were green? A lot of people do, but no one really knows what color they were!

That’s Ginormous
T. rex weighed as much as 6 cars and was as long as a bus! Even though they were so big, they could still move fast.
Super Senses
T. rex were great hunters. Their noses could pick up a scent easily from far away. Plus, their large eyes wouldn’t miss seeing a good meal.

Colossal Cuspids
T. rex had more than 60 sharp teeth, and each were the size of a grown-up’s shoe. Wow, if there was a Dinosaur Tooth Fairy, they would have been really busy!

Mighty Muscles
Even though T. rex arms seemed tiny compared to the rest of their body, they were really strong! Scientists say they were able to lift 400 lbs.
EXPLORE. LEARN. CREATE.

Grab your crayons, and join Radley Rex for a fun-filled day at the Washington Pavilion! Follow Radley Rex’s clues and experience exciting exhibits, attractions, and learning areas as we go along. Learn about astronauts in outer space. Pretend to conduct an orchestra. Use your imagination to create a masterpiece. Anything is possible.

What are you waiting for? An epic adventure awaits at the Washington Pavilion!

Learn more at